

Contributors

The following persons and/or organizations deserve special recognition for their contributions to the content, proof reading and editing of this manual. They have shared their vast experiences and research without charge in order to benefit others. Some have granted permission to reprint or adapt original materials and/or have provided special assistance in efforts to improve the quality of infection control programs in the long-term care setting. Yet others have provided countless hours of technical support. The Bureau of Epidemiology is deeply indebted to the following:
